Apple Releases iOS 10.3.2 With Multiple Bug Fixes and Security Updates

Monday May 15, 2017 9:58 am PDT by Juli Clover

Apple today released iOS 10.3.2 to the public, following several weeks of testing and four betas. iOS 10.3.2 comes six weeks after the release of iOS 10.3, a major update that introduced a new Find My AirPods feature and Apple File System. It also comes more than a month weeks after iOS 10.3.1, a security update.

iOS 10.3.2 is a free over-the-air update available to all users with a compatible device. It can also be downloaded and installed on iOS devices using iTunes on a Mac or PC.

There were no outward-facing changes or new features discovered during the beta testing process, aside from a small fix for SiriKit car commands, which are now working as intended.

It appears iOS 10.3.2 focuses primarily on bug fixes, security enhancements, and other minor operating system improvements.

iOS 10 will soon be followed by iOS 11, which we will see introduced at Apple's June Worldwide Developers Conference in San Jose, California. We still have several months to go until iOS 11 is released to the public, so there are likely to be continued iOS 10 updates.

Saving Impt. Pics, Passwords, Info to Notes App.

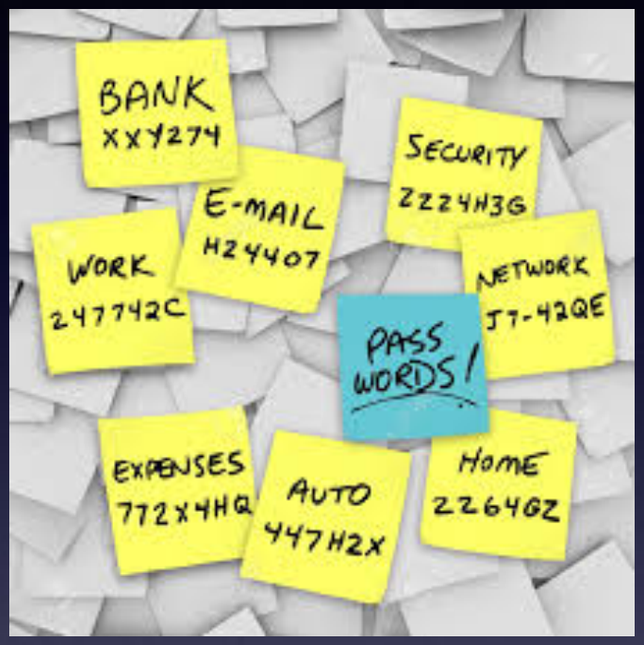
Biggest lie: I can remember that!

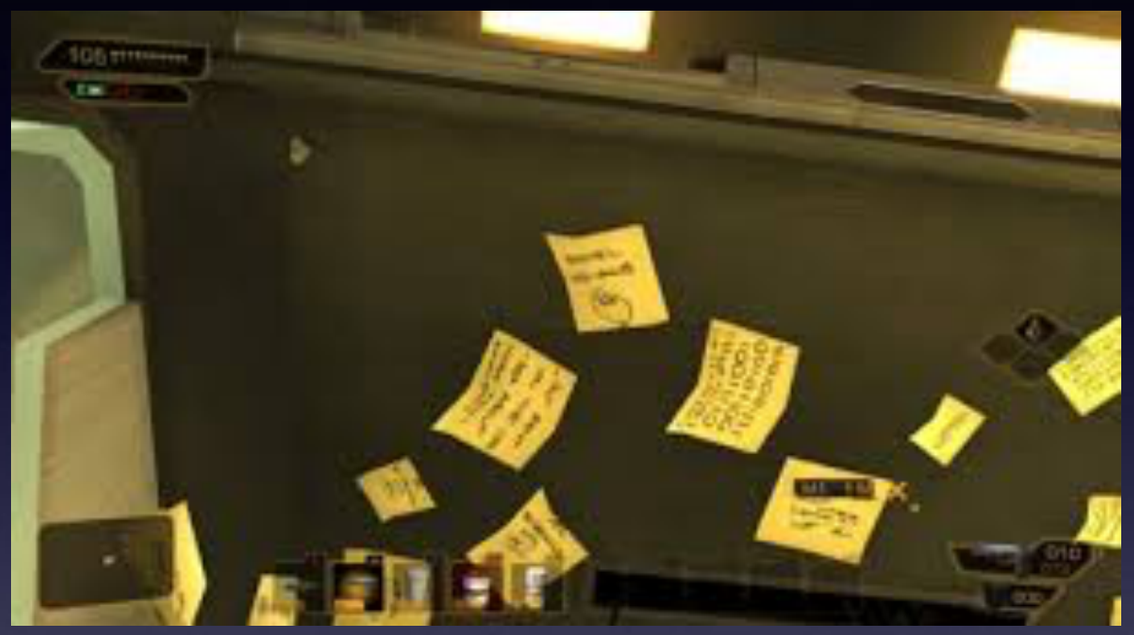
Your Notes app is the place to keep data that are safe!

iPhone users must assume :

It is impossible to remember everything.
I may lose my iPhone.
I may damage my iPhone.
I may need to share my data.

Where Do You Keep Your Passwords?





Best Favor To/For Yourself!

Save your passwords (and other relevant data) in the the Notes app.

“No-one" can get your data if you have your iPhone / iPad “passcode locked.”

If you store your notes, pass-codes, passwords in iCloud notes; they are backed up to iCloud.

Which is more important to you: your device or what is on your device?

Change your Apple ID

Follow these steps to change the email address that you use as your Apple ID.

1 Sign out of your Apple ID

Sign out of every Apple service and device that uses your Apple ID.

2 Change your email address

You can change your Apple ID from your account page or from your iOS device with 10.3 or later.

From your Apple ID account page: Go to appleid.apple.com and sign in. In the Account section, click Edit. Under your Apple ID, click Change Email Address.

On your iPhone, iPad, or iPod touch: Go to Settings > [your name] > Name, Phone Numbers, Email. Next to Reachable At, tap Edit > Delete. Tap Continue and follow the instructions you see.

When you change your email address, you might be asked to answer one or more of your security questions.

3 Verify your new email

After you enter the email address that you want to use as your Apple ID, a verification code is sent to you at that address. Enter the verification code from the email into the fields provided and start using your updated Apple ID. Didn't get the email?

4 Sign back in

Sign back in to all Apple services with your new Apple ID.

After you change your Apple ID, you need to use your new sign-in information with all Apple services that you use.

If all of your content is tied to an Apple ID that ceases to exist.

Modern-day 'Ferris Bueller' hacks into school's computers to change grades

By Kevin Sheehan and Bob Fredericks October 20, 2015 | 4:20pm

Daniel Soares

A Long Island teen hacked into his high school's computer system to inflate his grades — and mess up the schedules of 300 students before the first day of class, cops said Tuesday.

Commack HS senior Daniel Soares pulled off the high-tech caper by breaking into his school over the summer and placing a keylogger on a computer, Suffolk cops said.

The keylogger — types of which have been used by parents to secretly review their kids' online activity — captured every keystroke made by the computer's users, including logins and passwords, Detective Sgt. John Best, head of his department's Computer Crimes Unit, told The Post.

Fake News Expert On How False Stories Spread And Why People Believe Them

FRESH AIR

Craig Silverman of BuzzFeed News has spent years studying media inaccuracy. He explains how false stories during the presidential campaign were spread on Facebook and monetized by Google AdSense.

DAVE DAVIES, HOST:

This is FRESH AIR. I'm Dave Davies in for Terry Gross. So do you remember reading that Hillary Clinton paid Jay Z and Beyonce $62 million dollars for performing at a rally in Cleveland before the election? You might have, but the story is false, one of many posted on hyper-partisan websites and spread by aggressive social media campaigns during the presidential election.

Our guest, Craig Silverman, has spent much of his career as a journalist writing about issues of accuracy in media. He wrote a column for the Poynter Institute called Regret the Error and later a book of the same name on the harm done by erroneous reporting. He also launched a web-based startup called Emergent devoted to crowdsourcing the fact-checking of fake news.

He's now the media editor for the website BuzzFeed, and he spent much of this year writing about fake news, rumors and conspiracy theories that gained currency in the presidential campaign - where they came from, why they got so much engagement on social media and what should be done to reduce their impact on public discourse. I spoke to Craig Silverman yesterday.

Texas Bus Accident Caused By Texting Driver!

The driver of a pickup truck that crossed the center line and crashed into a church minibus in Texas told a witness that he had been texting while driving.

Jody Kuchler told The Associated Press he was driving behind the truck and had seen it moving erratically prior to the Wednesday collision on a two-lane road about 75 miles west (120 km) of San Antonio, near the town of Concan. Kuchler said the truck had crossed the center line several times while he followed it.

Kuchler said he called the sheriff's offices for both Uvalde and Real counties while he followed the truck and told them "they needed to get him off the road before he hit somebody."

Fox News

March 29, 2017

At least three calls were made to 911 dispatchers reporting an "erratic driver" prior to the accident, officials said.

Real County Constable Nathan Johnson says that the first call was made by a motorist who reported seeing the pickup truck driver operating the vehicle in an "erratic" way while traveling north on Highway 83.

At least one other call followed. Real County officers were out looking for the vehicle, but didn't see it. Johnson says another call came in to the Uvalde 911 dispatchers about the same vehicle.

The next call to emergency officials reported the crash between the minibus and the pickup truck.

Helpful Tip- When getting rear-ended by a texting moron it is helpful to have a sizable trailer hitch hanging off the back of your truck. It greatly diminishes the damage to your vehicle but not that of the offender. However the whiplash and soreness are apparently not diminished.
