A 9-year-old girl reportedly hanged herself in her Bronx home after her mother told her it was too early in the morning to be on her phone.

(KRON) - A 9-year-old girl reportedly hanged herself in her Bronx home after her mother told her it was too early in the morning to be on her phone.

Heaven Vega was found dead in her bedroom at the family's home shortly before noon Saturday, authorities said, according to the New York Post.

Police said Heaven had tied a belt around her neck and hanged herself from her bed.

Police sources and neighbors told the Post that Heaven and her mother had fought over the girl's cellphone use.

I hear it a lot: "I'm NEVER using a mobile wallet. That's so unsafe! Anyone could just take all my bank information from the air or something and run off with it."

Never mind that you routinely leave your phone laying out with your bank app logged in and your camera app, filled with all those embarrassing selfies and attempts at duckface, open like it's no big deal.

People are really attached to the idea of hard plastic. Maybe it's the smell of the leather and pocket crumbs as they open their wallet or the fun of rummaging through four compartments to try and come up with exact change, but people just don't want to give up their wallets. Despite the fact that everyone I have
