33 Things You Used To Own That Your iPhone Replaced

By WIL FULTON   By WIL FULTON @WilFulton

@WilFulton
Generations from now, we'll tell our grandchildren tales of forgotten places, lost to time, called "Circuit City," "RadioShack," and "Nobody Beats the Wiz." Unfortunately for them (but luckily for you), every single item they sell is now available in that little metal box inside your pants, primarily for the low, low price of absolutely nothing.

The sheer amount of practical products that have been consolidated into your smartphone is nothing less than mind-boggling, with apps, built-in devices, and modern technology taking over so many items and gadgets we previously had to fork out our hard-earned cash-moneys for. Here are 33 things that, for all intents and purposes, you'll never need to buy again—thanks to your iPhone, Steve Jobs, and American ingenuity at its finest. Or something like that...

HOW-TO

How to find out where Apple stores your iCloud data (spoiler: you can't exactly)

Where Can I See "My" iCloud?

Think of iCloud as a huge subdivision. You own a house. In it; it is a small house. You may decide to build an addition. So you can add more storage to hold more data.

Your house is locked and only you have the key!

How Do I Get To iCloud?
And Get Into My House?

Directions: go to icloud.com on any web browser: Safari, Chrome, or Firefox.

I'm Locked out.   How do I get in (or how do I access my Notes, my Photos, my Calendar, my Contacts, etc.?

Your key to open your account is Your Apple ID and Apple ID password.

iCloud Can Be Accessed Through My Computer!

But not (completely) my iPad or iPhone!

Open Safari and Type iCloud.com

Sign in to iCloud

Forgot Apple ID or password?
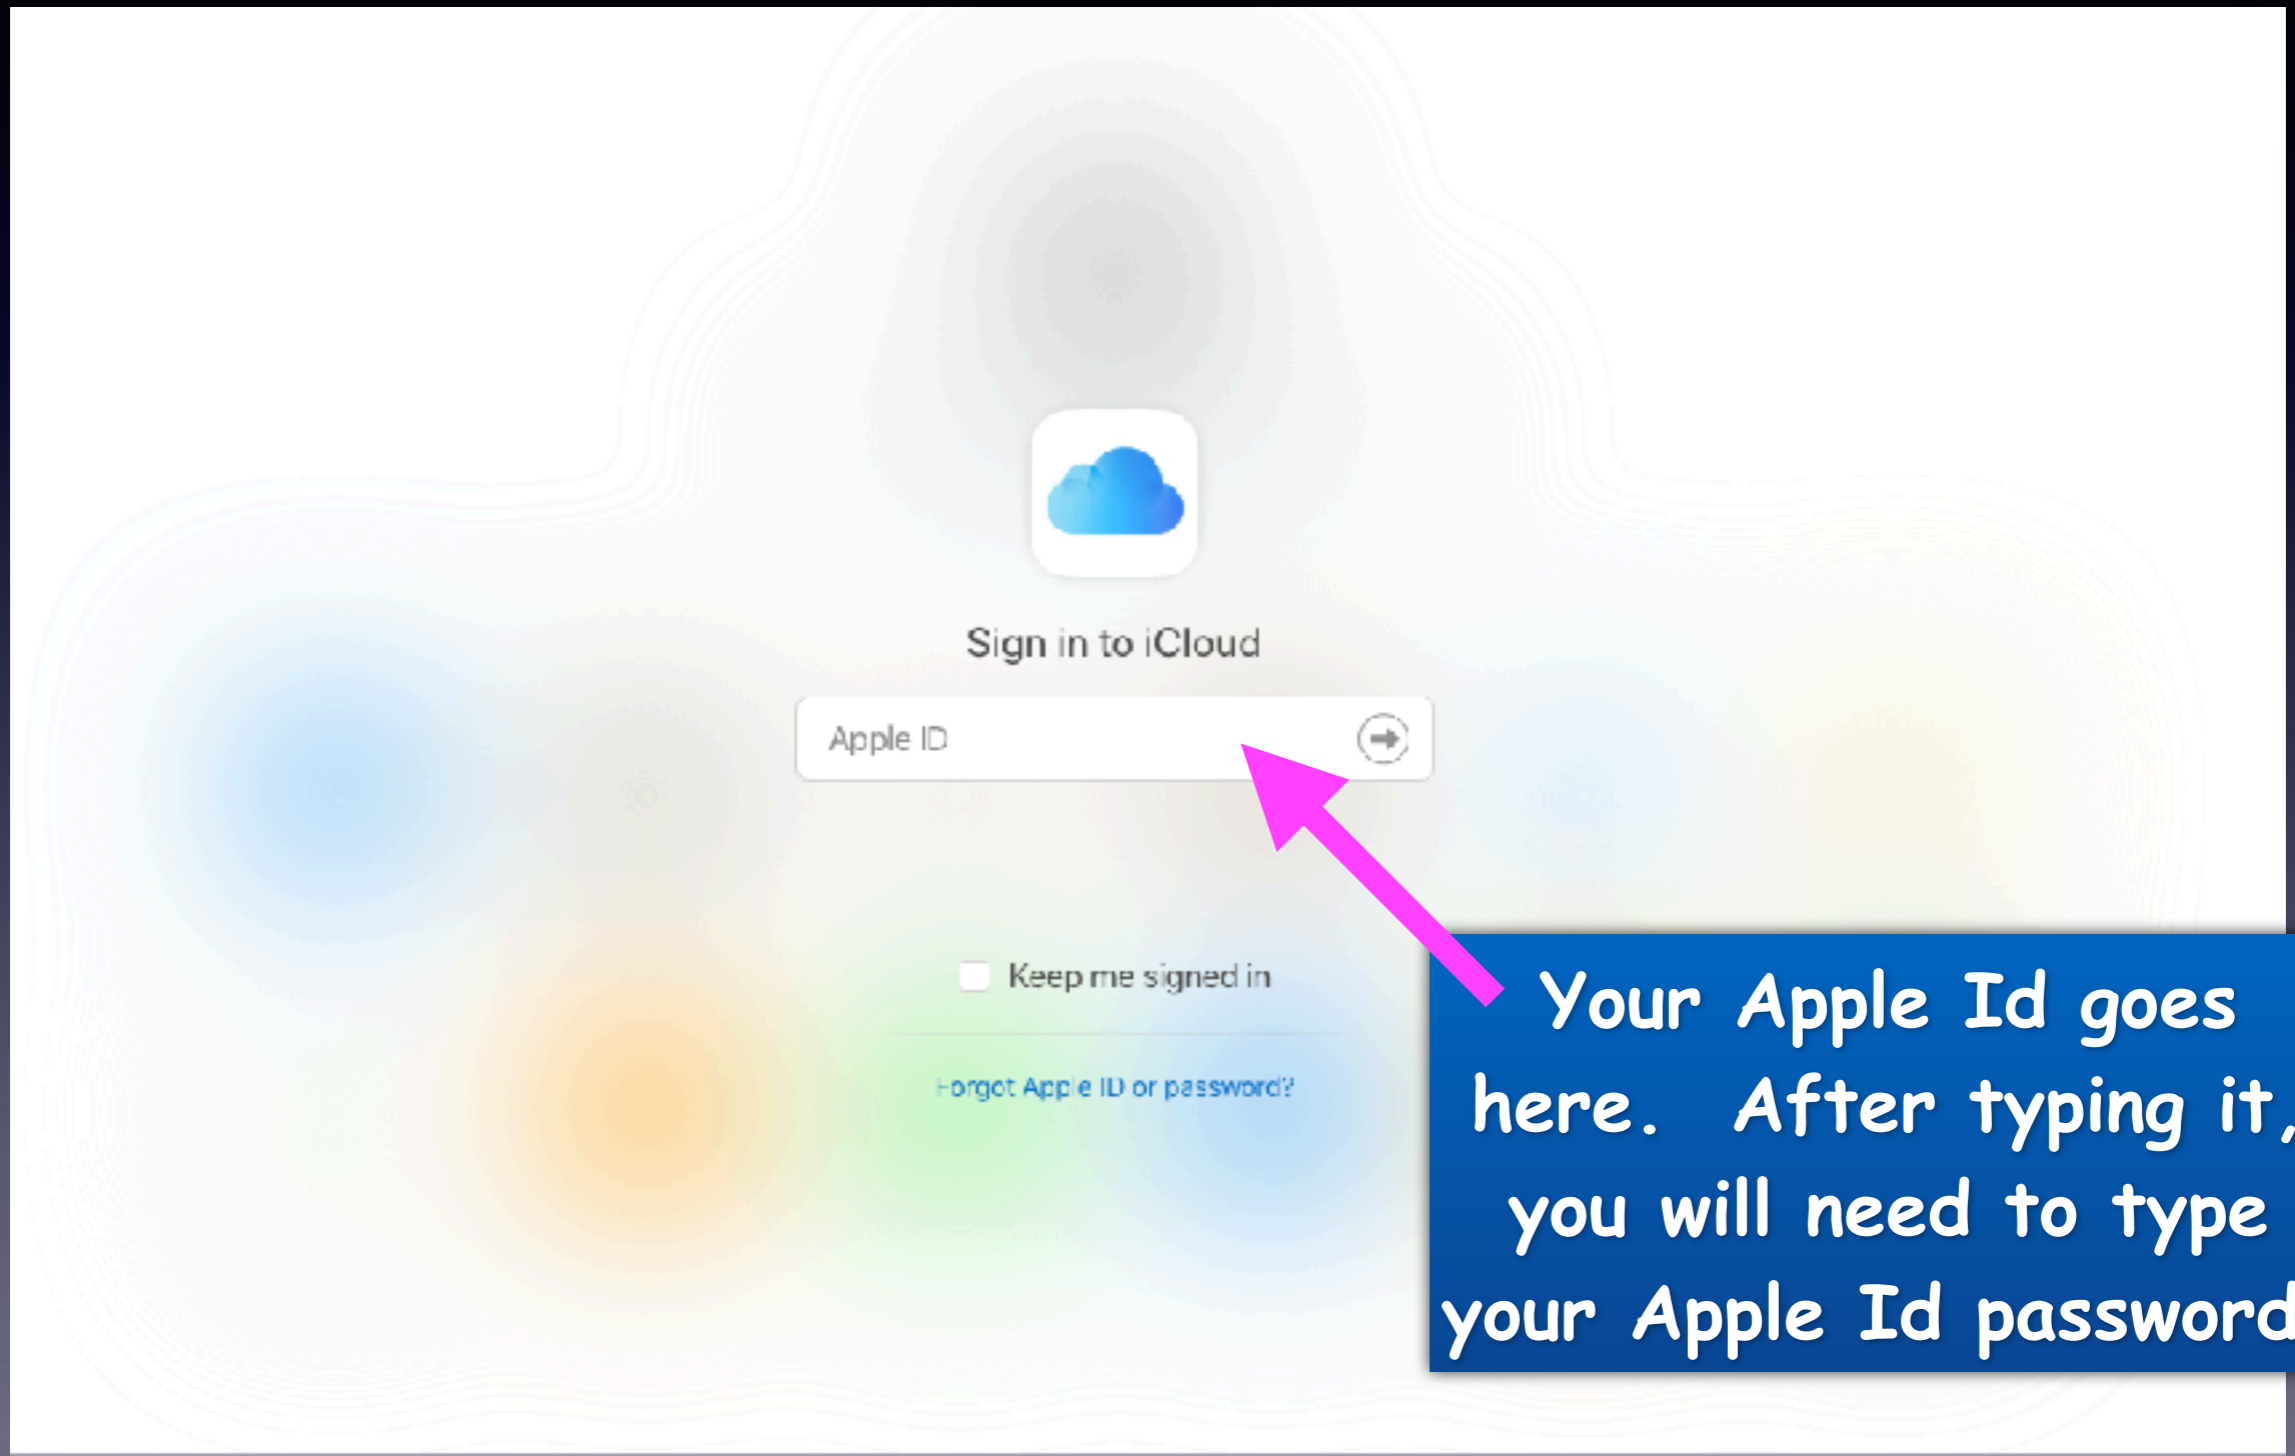

Your Apple Id goes here. After typing it, you will need to type your Apple Id password.

Do You Think Apple Will Let You In With Just A Key (your Apple Id and Apple Id Password)?

Not if you were trying to do it on a new device or first time!

You will need a second form of "identification"!
It's called Two Factor Authentication!

What Is Two Factor Authentication?

It's all about security!

Most of you have it turned on without realizing it.

It's your second form of identification!

Dear Tom Miller,

Your Apple ID (tdmill@me.com) was used to sign in to iCloud via a web browser.

Date and Time: January 16, 2020, 5:01 AM PST

If the information above looks familiar, you can ignore this message.

If you have not signed in to iCloud recently and believe someone may have accessed your account, go to Apple ID (https://appleid.apple.com) and change your password as soon as possible.

Do I use my Apple ID & Apple ID password to sign into my iCloud account?

Remember it is the "key" to unlock your "house" account!

Your Apple ID is your email address.

Your Apple ID password is something you will create.
A minimum of 8 characters, a capital letter & a number.

Use Apple Apps

However, it is not the general consensus! 3rd party developers would like you to use their apps!

13 apps for your iPhone that are better than the ones Apple made

Could A Third Party App Be Better Than An Apple App?

Instead of Mail, use Edison Email
Instead of Calendar, use Google Calendar.
Instead of Notes, use Evernote.
Instead of Maps, use Google Maps.
Instead of Voice Memos, use Recordium.
Instead of Apple Music, use Spotify.
Instead of Weather, use Dark Sky.
Instead of Safari, use Google Chrome.
Instead of Pages, use Word.
Instead of Health, use MyFitnessPal.
Instead of iMovie, use Videoshop.
Instead of Keynote, use PowerPoint.
Instead of Numbers, use Microsoft Excel.
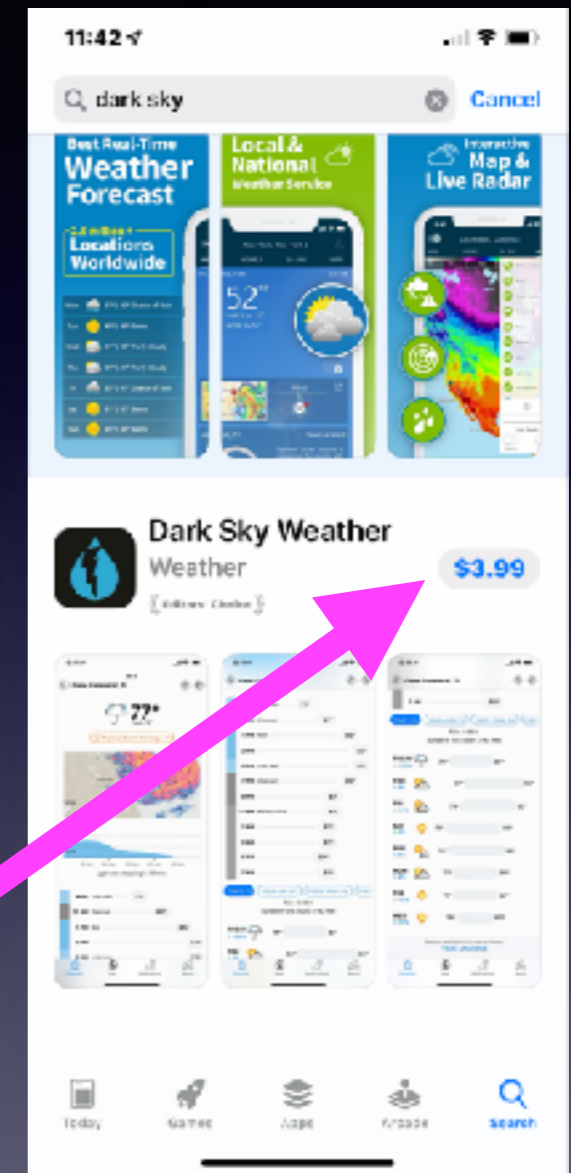

Some will cost; Apple apps included with iPhone or Mac computer are free.

Apple apps will sync and share across all of your Apple devices when you sign into your iCloud account!

Integration and Syncing and Sharing

But A Company Called Script Software Made Mac Software from 1996 through 2007 with "i" Names Long Before Apple Did.*

Steve Jobs Appropriated the "i"
To add a touch of personality and a possessive trait…to make a product sound more like an organ
to an individual and not just a gadget.

Yet, products for the professional contained such nomenclature as "Power PC" and "Power Mac"
